The police vaguely remember that some body made a complaint five years or more ago that a woman was kept a prisoner in Parina's house. There was an investigation, which was dropped on Parma's promise to protect the woman from danger of being burned to death by not tocking her in when he was out of the house.

PROFESSOR'S DAUGHTER. But from shreds of information which save been gathered from former and resent members of the music teacher's seasonald the police and Coroner Helmstein are firmly of the belief that he is Alice Parma and a daughter of man who is dead. In explaining his puping her in his home Prof. Parma has in a while dropped a remark that he did not see how any man could let he own fiesh and blood be thrust into the horrors of a public asylum for the
